Topic: Effective Planning: The Key Tool to Get In and Succeed at Top Colleges and Reach their Full Potential

Chinese parents are widely admired for their dedication to their children's education.

However, having a "map" can making the task much clearer and easier.

In this talk, MIT senior Tim Zheng will share lessons and experiences that he hopes will help you achieve your goals much more easily. There will be three sections to this presentation:

- * what the top collages really offered --and not just for book smarts
- * detailed walk through of Tim's own college application to MIT/Stanford
- * what really matters in college admissions

Speaker: Tim Zheng, MIT Class of 2011, Founder & CEO of BrainGenie.com

Tim double majored in Mathematics with Computer Science and Finance at MIT, and will be starting at Citadel Group, a hedge fund in Chicago, after graduating in June. Tim graduated from Phillips Academy, Andover, where he qualified three times for the USA Math Olympiad; previously, Tim represented Massachusetts on the National MATHCOUNTS team.

During MIT, Tim has interned at investment bank Goldman Sachs, BCG, and several hedge funds . He also founded BrainGenie.com, an comprehensive math learning website for both average and advanced students. Its curriculum integrates the world's the best math programs and contests, and covers both math fundamentalists and challenging problem-solving. Once launched in June, BrainGenie.com will be the most comprehensive math learning system in the world, with over 2,500 video lessons and 60,000 practice problems.
